Description: The new year is here, and we are more excited than ever! It's been a tough 2 years due to covid, but now that things are simmering down. We finally get a chance to enjoy ourselves again. This year's theme is all about celebrating the return of our semi-normal lives.

Normal life isn't usually something we celebrate, but this is different. After the year we had in 2020, nothing is more exciting hugging your friends, sitting in class and chatting in the cafeteria.

Last year, we sat at home for a long time. Zoom classes, bad news, confusion. We only saw our friends through their small squares on Zoom, our birthdays were just car parades through our neighborhood, and we had to keep a distance all the time.

This year, we rejoiced. We cheered in the stands at the football games, ate with our friends in the cafeteria, showcased our art to the community, and decked out in our finest costumes for Halloween. We were back and better than ever.

We've gotten used to normal again. Is there still reason to rejoice?

Yes, because now we can pick up where we left off: embracing our friends, finding our passions and celebrating the little things. We're prepared for whatever comes at us. Everything changes, and we will rejoice in all the changes that make life exciting.
